

Blind in the Mind

(By Sahlu Bekele – Toronto)

What is cooking?
What is in the thinking?
In the minds of dictators
Those who live in their cocoons
How come they don't see?
What we sense and see
How come they don't foresee
The approaching turbulent sea
The sea of resistance
The abundance of sacrifice
The commitment of the mass
How come they don't anticipate?
When demise comes straight
Dictators' mentality
From Ben Ali to Gaddafi
It's all the same
They know no truth
They know no shame
Corrupt minds and tainted souls
Arrogant psychic and selfish goals
Clouded brains and dogmatic tones
These are the attributes
Of all dictators
Blurred vision and limply thoughts
Derailed politics and nasty shows
These are the attributes
Of all dictators.

What a world we live in
Dynamic changes in the cooking
Wake up calls in the making
Dictators destined to rule
In a manner so cruel
The people marching for liberty
Seeking freedom and justice
Committed to die
With aspirations so high

The time is up, it's in deed
For dictators, this is the end
Since they're at a dead end.

Nowhere to go
Nowhere to escape
It's too late
For leaders like Meles
Green snakes in a lash grass
A psychopath liar
An internal colonizer
A super fear monger
A genocide commander
The homemade renegade
The duce of ethnocentric brigade
An embarrassment to Ethiopia
A liability to Africa
A deficit to the world
Is Prime Minister Meles
And he will be next
On the dictators' list♦
